Meet “DJ Jerk”- don’t let the name fool you!

THE SCOOP

MABLE HASTINGS

Meet Jeremy Eldridge, Senior Programmer Analyst, husband, father of two, avid baseball fan, computer “go to” guy and up and coming deejay!

Eldridge’s day job is as the Senior Programmer Analyst for Cooptel (a telecom cooperative that offers phone/internet/tv in Valcourt, Sherbrooke and Montreal) and his drive to and from his job averages seven to eight hours on the road per week. You may ask yourself how he manages a drive like this daily while still maintaining his sanity.

“That’s where my second passion comes into play,” shares Eldridge. “I love music and being in the car for eight hours a week keeps a guy pretty in tune with the latest hits.”

A couple of years ago, Eldridge decided to further his hobby that began sometime in 2010 when he started sporadically doing small gigs for local events in the area. Since 2015 when his hobby took a more serious turn, Jeremy has invested in sound equipment, lights and most recently in a deejay turntable controller and mixer that can do almost anything with a few masterful flicks of the wrist.

“I want to offer a quality service to anyone who hires me for a gig,” said Eldridge. “I want to be the right guy for any type of party and to be prepared for a plethora of musical tastes and requirements.”

Recently, Eldridge completed his business website for his DJ Jerk service djerk.ca and on it; potential clients are able to read the testimonials of those who have hired Eldridge in the past. From the comments shared, it soon becomes apparent that DJ Jerk is making a name for himself. School dances, youth events, private parties, weddings, birthday parties, memorial events and more...

“I’ve never done anything without giving it my very best,” said Eldridge during our interview. “I want people to feel like I added to their event and that I brought something special to it in entertaining and making memories for whatever the purpose was of their gathering.”

Eldridge is interactive when requested and stimulates the crowd with his encouraging personality and enthusiasm but he can also be discreet and professional when an event requires a more quiet approach of dinner or background music. Easily able to accept instructions and more than willing to
