Halloween at the youth centre in Mansonville was a scream!

THE SCOOP

MABLE HASTINGS

The Missisquoi North (CABMN) Youth Centre welcomed record numbers of children and adults to its Halloween themed evening on Wednesday night. With treats provided by the Mansonville Optimist Club and the amazing coordination efforts of Julia Eldridge and Rachelle Lachance, FYI (Former Youth Involvement) committee members and long-time youth centre supporters, the evening was a blast from start to finish.

With over fifteen youth and volunteers participating, the theme this year was, "Haunted Prom" and the zombies were aplenty as Principal McGreen welcomed all who dared enter to enjoy the "last waltz" of the evening. According to McGreen, "people were dying to get in!"

While spine tingling antics took place inside, outside the centre, hot chocolate and hot coffee were served to warm all who arrived in the damp drizzle, kids in tow, looking to stop the chill in their bones. A photo booth assured that all trick or treaters, both young and not so young were able to sit for a family photo or one with friends. Photos can be found on the Youth Centre Facebook page.

It was estimated that over 140 youth passed through the Centre which is a record number. For the organizers and volunteers, this is the one night where the occasional scream of a child or adult is sweet music to the ears!

All involved with this annual haunt send out their gratitude to the Mansonville Optimist Club for their sponsorship of the event and to the Municipality of Pottton for the use of a tent to provide shelter from the rain while parents and youth shared a beverage and stopped for a photo.

Organizers extend a huge thank you
