Fall start up brings bling fundraiser to the Missisquoi North (CABMN) youth centre

THE SCOOP MABLE HASTINGS

The Missisquoi North Volunteer (CABMN) youth centre re-started its youth programming for the fall 2021 to summer 2022 year this past week and weekend. A two-day jewellery sale fundraiser to benefit programs like the Mansonville Agricultural Youth Organization (MAYO)-Jeunes Agriculteurs de Mansonville (JAM) two day per week farming program offered as well as Students Against Destructive Decisions (SADD) leadership program, and dance group being just some of the groups organized by the longstanding organization.

Donations of second-hand jewellery, purses, scarves as well as movies, cds, books, etc. are collected throughout the year and sales like this one attended by more than 100 people are organized to help raise funds to keep the programs going.

"This two-day sale has brought in approximately $1100," said Youth Coordinator, Ethan Ball. He and Animator, Eleanor Cote worked alongside dedicated volunteers, Laurette Rouleau and Joe (Julia) Hastings and youth volunteers: Amelya Jersey, Dakota Paige, Kate Eldridge, Aryane Bahl, Danika Robinson, Alex Fidler Jr. and Jason Ball.

"We can only accomplish this with the generosity of the people who donate items and those like CABMN Board Member, Madeleine Langlois who solicited family and friends for donations of jewellery, etc.," he added. "The generosity of those who come out and find a treasure or two and make a monetary donation never cease to amaze me with their kindness."

In November the Youth Centre in Mansonville will hold its largest fundraising initiative of the year with their Annual Rock-a-thon where participants get donations and then spend four hours rocking in a rocking chair while participating in activities. This is the one Youth Centre fundraiser per year where people are asked to make a contribution without getting something tangible back in return but rather just the knowledge that, by way of their donation, they have supported the youth programming of the CABMN in providing quality programs for youth.

"We thank the volunteers, donors and attendees who made the Jewelry Sale fundraiser such a success," stated Eleanor Cote, Youth Animator. "We are very proud of the youth we serve and having the support of the community and beyond makes us motivated and encouraged to bring the best possible programs to the kids," she added.
